As the team behind Livingetc, the UK's leading magazine for modern interiors, we're always out and about, scouting for inspiration. And when we see something that makes our design minds flutter with joy, we'll share it with you here. To purchase the digital version of the magazine, click here.

The latest issue...

The September issue of Livingetc is out, out, out. We reveal the best new-season homeware and celebrate the most stylish small spaces around. The Style team have a very glamorous time reinventing the Thirties and monochrome, and we travel to New York's coolest new hotels. It's a fabulous issue, even if we do say so ourselves...

All Lovely Stuff

September 23, 2010 In Shops, shopping, shopped | by Life.Style.etc

Livingetc loves simple, well-designed products, particularly if they are lovely, so it makes sense that we should love All Lovely Stuff, a new homeware brand founded by designer-maker Carl Clerkin and industrial designer Ed Ward. The collection was launched at SCP on Wednesday night, and will be stocked there after London Design Festival.

And the names are a bit lovely, too – Bare Face mirror, Cheesy Pete cheese board, and this.
